

A dollar valuation at late stage is a funding structure, not a verdict on the technology.

Early on, the company sets the price and capital follows. Late, the capital sets the price and the company grows into it, or doesn't.

A fund that must deploy a very large sum can't buy 2% of a small company. It needs a company priced so its check fits.

Better question than "is it justified by revenue multiples?": what kind of capital is this price built to absorb?

A private mark is set by buyers inside the round.
A public mark is set by a larger, less forgiving crowd. When they diverge, someone holds the difference.

None of this needs a view on the technology. It needs reading the paper. Who led, and who wrote the last check?
