GCC term sheets look different this quarter. Debt is showing up before equity.

---

Founders and boards are reaching for private debt first, not to play safe, but to stop paying the tax of defending a valuation nobody believes.

---

No mark to defend, ownership stays intact, cap table stays clean, and the lender underwrites cash flow, not a narrative.

---

The capital that shows up first as a lender gets the best seat when the equity round happens: information rights, relationship, first call.

---

Founders chasing the highest valuation are optimizing for a headline. Capital chasing the first lending relationship is optimizing for the next ten years.

---

Korea, Gulf, and Southeast Asia capital flows, every week. The corridor read before it becomes consensus, one link away.
