
GCC term sheets look different this quarter. Debt is showing up before equity.

Founders are done paying the tax of defending a valuation nobody in the room believes.

No mark to defend at the next raise. Ownership stays intact through the trough.

The lender underwrites cash flow, not a narrative. Cap table stays clean for the round that needs pricing.

Capital that lends first gets the best seat later: information rights, relationship, first call.

The capital chasing the first lending relationship is the capital built for the next ten years. Full read below.
