

A Tashkent banking circle flagged something two weeks ago that most Gulf-facing funds have not clocked yet.

Central Asia just finished building the compliance rail Sharia capital actually needs to enter it.

The Central Bank of Uzbekistan spent years building an Islamic finance regulatory framework and the tax infrastructure behind it.

IMAN, Uzbekistan's Islamic finance app, now has a 7 year track record operating inside that build-out.

Per bankxabar, more than 10 Uzbek banks are now preparing to launch Sharia-compliant products.

Western due diligence still reads this region through a conventional-banking lens, missing a market that already changed shape. More in the comments.
